

Abstract

Jet quenching is an interesting effect appearing in heavy ion collisions. CMS detector has collected a significant amount of data during the LHC PbPb collisions.

In this talk the latest results from CMS on jet quenching is reviewed. Different evidences are given to prove the existance of the jet quenching.

Using the tracker information has helped a lot to understand the features of the jet quenching.