Abstract

We performed a study of polarized hadron structure in a phenomenological model, named"Valon model". I extract polarized hadron structure and PPDFs in valon model with suitable initial input densities for solving DGLAP equations and my results are in very good agreement with the experimental data. I calculated valence quark polarization in valon model and compare my results with new COMPASS data. The results are in good agreement.