

Abstract

With the outcome of this year Nobel laureates it sound timely to dicuss QCD and in particular low energy phenomena. In the talk I will briefly explain how chiral perturbation theory as an effective field theory can describe strong dynamics at low energies. And more in details will discuss two important processes, namely, eta decay and semi-leptonic kaon decay.